Each person connects their calendar securely. They sign in to the government portal once a month to approve. We never store those credentials.

It sets the one person who signs off, so nothing is filed without approval, and which calendars to watch.

5 topics · 5 government bodies set as your defaults. We add anything else we spot in a meeting, automatically.

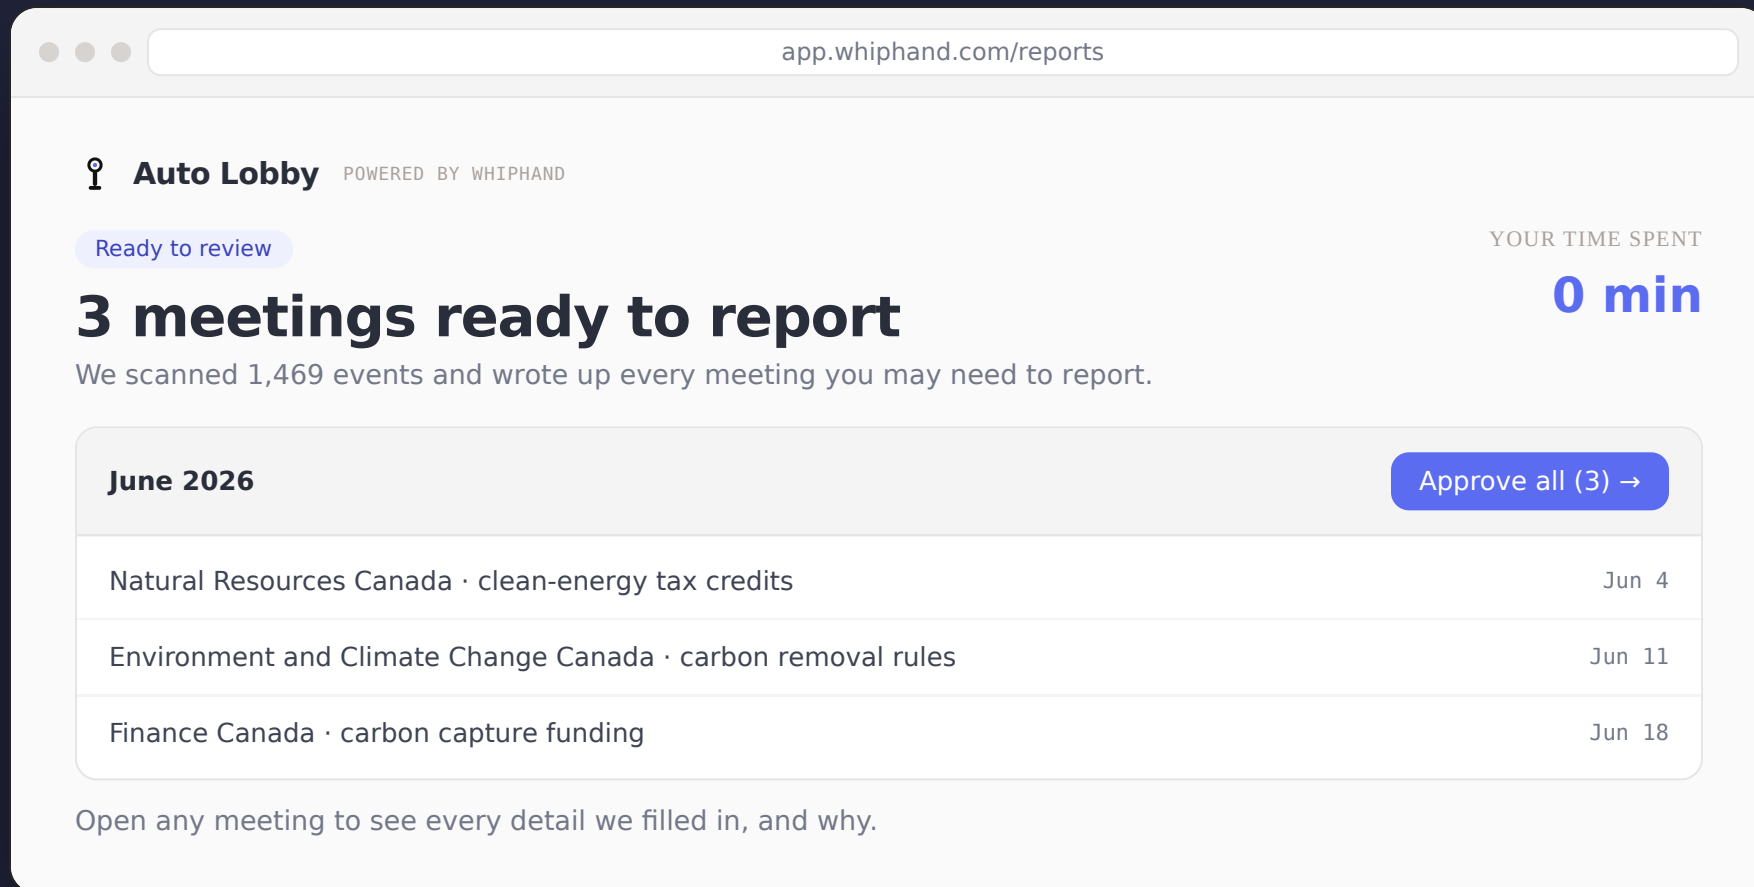

The highlighted choices were made for them. Someone with no compliance background can click Continue and still be set up correctly.

Closes with the payoff number, and says exactly what happens next.

Works with Google and Microsoft 365. Once connected, we scan and sort meetings in the background, with no work for the user.

Everything in one place: meetings found, written up, with the reasoning shown on every field, and one button for the person who signs off. This is the screen you demo.

Open any meeting and every field is already filled — the people matched against the public-officials registry, the topics pulled from your profile. Nothing to type.

Every decision shows exactly why a meeting is in, or out, citing the section of the Lobbying Act behind it. Auditable by design.

The one action a month: your senior officer reviews and approves. About five minutes — the law requires them to attest personally, and Auto Lobby keeps it that way.

Auto Lobby files to the lobbying registry and keeps a full audit trail, so if anyone ever asks, the answer is one click away.
